Two Big Fires In Pittsburgh And Glassport

Hotel, Parochial School Are Damaged in Six-alarm Blazes

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A six-alarm fire destroyed the Mazur Hotel, Glassport, Pa., landmark, during the night as firemen were forced to smash windows with rocks because water-pressure from the hoses was too weak to break the glass.

The blaze was the second general alarm fire of the day in the Pittsburgh district and the fifth in less than four weeks.

A six-alarm fire broke out in the Holy Rosary grade school in the Homewood section of Pittsburgh shortly after noon Friday and caused $150,000 damage.

None of the school children nor any of the guests at the hotel were hurt, but several firemen suffered from smoke inhalation while fighting the fires.

Defective Water Hydrants

At the Glassport blaze, firemen found two water hydrants defective in the vicinity of the hotel. When hoses finally were connected with operating hydrants, the water pressure was so weak that the streams from the hoses would not reach the top story of the three-floor structure.

Firemen hurled rocks through the windows of the hotel to get water on the blaze.

At Holy Rosary, nearly all of the 800 students were out of the building for the lunch recess when the fire broke out. The blaze was discovered by Choirmaster Patrick McShane, who had just dismissed 30 pupils from a rehearsal.

Special fire control equipment, installed during a $200,000 remodeling project three years ago, was credited by Pittsburgh Fire Chief Stephen Adley with confining the blaze to a two-story auditorium wing. The main three-story section of the parochial school was damaged by water and smoke.

The Mazur Hotel started at about 9:30 p.m. in a second-floor room of the structure, which housed apartments for six families and a number of single rooms. The hotel also had a bar and dining room.

Fire Under Control

Thirty fire companies from several communities, including McKeesport, Clairton, Port Vue, Dravosburg and Elizabeth fought the flames. They brought the fire under control shortly after midnight but the hotel, located on a corner of Monongahela Ave. and Eighth St., was a complete loss.

The hotel was owned by Joseph Mazur, who occupied an apartment on the second floor.

The series of major fires started Jan. 22, when a six-alarm destroyed the Bellefield Vocational School for Gurls in the Oakland District of Pittsburgh.

On Feb. 3, a fire caused more than $1 million damage to three buildings on Liberty Ave. in the Golden Triangle district of Pittsburgh. Last Wednesday night, another six-alarm blaze burned out a four-story building in the Diamond Market area of downtown Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh Safety Director Louis Rosenberg ordered Fire Chief Adley and Building Inspector J. Clyde Taylor to take all necessary steps to guard against similar fires.

He told them to determine when the fires started, the exact location of the origins, the uses of the floors where the fires started, the buildings' occupants, and the times the buildings were last inspected as to electrical and other facilities.

New Auto Safety Series on Monday

Beginning Monday, The Daily Independent will publish a series of United Press articles dealing with new research findings and developments in the field of automobile safety.

The dispatches will disclose the causes of auto deaths and injuries. Some of the findings contradict popular beliefs.

Other dispatches deal with the new safety features being built into cars; the controversy over alleged "flimsy" construction of modern cars; the role of speed and horsepower in causing accidents; and the pros and cons of super-highways.

Democrats Put Final Touches On Civil Rights

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The Democratic Party put finishing touches today on a hard-hitting civil rights program.

Opposition by old-line Southern conservatives began crumbling Friday during the opening session of a two-day western Democratic conference when the national executive committee routed the critics and ratified the national advisory council as the policy-making body for the party.

Late Friday night, National Chairman Paul M. Butler announced that the council had reached a "substantial agreement" on the new civil rights policy. He said it would be a strong "forthright and positive" statement.

Butler indicated that the South "May not be happy" with the new policy, but would "not be disagreeable."

Adlai Stevenson, the Democrats' presidential candidate in 1952 and 1956, took part in the two and one half hour deliberations of the council. Stevenson is scheduled to make a major speech as the conference closes tonight.

The battle over the status of the national advisory committee ended quickly.

The resolution, offered by C. Girard Davidson, national committeeman from Oregon, said the advisory council—already appointed by Butler — should be the voice of the national committee in the absence of a Democratic president.

Fox Grocery in New Sales High

John R. Fox, executive vice-president of the Fox Grovery Co., of Charleroi, said the company enjoyed its largest sales in history in 1956.

Speaking at the company's annual banquet, Fox also said employment at the firm is at an all-time high.

He did not reveal figures.

CON AND PRO OIL PRICE RISE — Oil price rise witnesses Bradley Cozzens (left), Los Angeles water and power department electrical engineer, and William H. Curry, Casper, Wyo., president of the Rocky Mountain Oil and Gas Association, testify before the Senate anti-trust hearing. Cozzens criticized oil companies for "taking advantage" of the Suez canal crisis and the fuel shortage in California. Curry argued that the oil companies have upped prices only twice in 10 years, while steel has gone up five times.

Budget Hearings to Begin in Harrisburg

HARRISBURG (UP) — The General Assembly will begin joint hearings Monday to determine if there is any "fat" in Gov. George M. Leader's $1.6-billion General Fund budget request.

Republican leaders, who control the Assembly, contend the request is $104,000,000 higher than necessary and plan to hew the state's 1957-59 financial blueprint into a $1.5-billion framework without enacting any new taxes.

The combined House and Senate Appropriations Committees will sit down with Banking Secretary Robert L. Myers Jr. to go over his request for $215,000 for the two-year fiscal period beginning June 1. Myers asked for $12,200 more money than his department received during the current biennium.

Rep. Norman Wood (R-Lancaster), chairman of the House Appropriations Committee purposely called the departments seeking relatively smaller appropriations.

"We want to take care of the little fellows before getting to the larger requests," he said.

The Milk Control Commission, seeking a $25,000 increase, and Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman, asking a $3,750 budget hike for his office also were scheduled to testify. All were instructed to bring detailed information of their department's fiscal operations to substantiate the proposed increases.

The Republicans initially promised to "hold the line" on state taxes, and introduced a $250,000,000 package in the House last week which would continue the big revenue raisers. The package, including a two-year extension of the 3 per cent sales tax, may be released to the floor by the Ways and Means Committee next week.

The Republicans may have to slash the governor's budget severely to bring it into line with their $1.5-billion framework, which is $104,000,000 less than Leader requested.

Also the GOP favors the administration's suggestion that the Manufacturers' exemption to the capital stock tax be allowed to go into effect, cutting expected revenue by $43,000,000.

Another large item is a $33,500,000 subsidy to help school districts finance an extra $100 teacher pay increase authorized by the Legislature last session. Neither the ad-

Kills Wife in Crowded Store; Nabbed by Police

DETROIT (UP)— A gun-waving alcoholic who shot and killed his wife in a crowded department store as shoppers watched in horror surrendered to police early today in a downtown hotel room.

Homicide squad officers said Rolin J. Jackson, 52, was located during a routine check of hotel registers. They said the fugitive had registered under his own name.

Jackson was taken without a struggle. Officers said they knocked at his door and told him they were from room service. When Jackson opened the door the police rushed in, tackled him and took him to headquarters where he is being held for investigation of murder. A loaded pistol was found in the room.

Jackson touched off a huge police search Friday when he strolled into the crowded basement of the J. L. Hudson Co., and, pistol in hand, began stalking his wife, Helen, 50, through the crowd of terrified shoppers.

Mrs. Jackson, a shoe clerk in the store, saw her husband coming and began running through the crowd shouting, "Help me! Please help me! My husband is after me!"

Her husband threaded his way after her through the throng, then raised the pistol and began shooting. Mrs. Jackson went down with three bullets in the stomach. She died enroute to a nearby hospital. Bullets whipped past nearby shoppers, some of whom threw themselves on the floor, but struck no one but the intended victim. Then Jackson fled.

Uniontown MD, 102, Is Dead

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Dr. John D. Sturgeon Sr., 102, died at his home Friday night.

The doctor, who claimed he had never formally retired from practice, began his medical career here in 1880. He was one of the founders of Uniontown Hospital and was past president of the Fayette County Medical Society and had served as county coroner.

Dr. Sturgeon once estimated he had delivered 7,500 babies.

He is survived by Dr. John D. Sturgeon Jr., a Uniontown pediatrician; William H. of Pittsburgh and Bailey J., of Uniontown. Three grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren also survive. His wife died in 1922.

UN Plans Mideast Discussion

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) —United Nations delegates maneuvered backstage today in preparation for a final effort at unsnarling the tangled problems of the Middle East before adjourning the 11th meeting of the General Assembly.

The assembly, originally scheduled to adjourn Friday, will reopen the Mid-East debate Monday. Diplomatic discussions going on during today's recess will determine what line the debate will take.

Last UN action on the Mid-East came two weeks ago when the assembly adopted two resolutions calling for Israel to withdraw its troops from Egypt.

The assembly concluded its deliberations on a second touchy question — Algeria — Friday by voting 77-0 in favor of a resolution expressing hope that a peaceful solution could be found to the dispute between France and Algeria "through appropriate means."

Reject Demand

The assembly also voted down Russia's demand for a debate on the Soviet charge that U.S. foreign policy is leading the world toward atomic war.

In other Mideast developments:

—President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt was reported by an Indian diplomat who spoke to him this week to have said he insists "certain conditions" be met before the canal is opened to shipping. This appeared to include complete withdrawal of Israeli troops.

—Two pro-Nasser newspapers in Beirut, Lebanon, charged that Dulles' agreement to back up Israel's demands for guarantees on the Gulf of Aqaba and the Gaza Strip would "dynamite the Eisenhower Doctrine. . .destroy Eisenhower's pacification efforts in the Mideast."

—Former President Truman prepared to deliver a major foreign policy address on the Middle East before some 2,000 Jewish leaders at an Israeli bond drive in Miami Beach tonight.

Pitt Chancellor Plans Marriage

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Dr. Edward H. Litchfield, 42, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, will wed Mary Carolyn Morrill, a post-graduate student at Columbia University, in late March, it was announced Friday.

The wedding will take place in Miss Morrill's hometown, Hiawatha, Kan. Litchfield, a widower with three children, is board chairman of Smith-Corona Corp. and of the Governmental Affairs Institute, Washington.

Miss Morrill, a graduate of the University of Kansas, served with the State Department in Washington and the International Cooperation Administration in Indonesia.

Litchfield's first wife, Mrs. Anne Muir MacIntyre Litchfield, died in January, 1956.

Woman Takes Her Own Life

HAVELOCK, N.C. (UP)— Mrs. Mildred May Stram, 42, of McKeesport, Pa., shot herself to death here Friday following a breakfast argument with her Marine sergeant husband.

Craven County Coroner Clyde Smith ruled that the death was a suicide. He said the woman had been killed by a .45 caliber bullet under the left ribs.

Smith said the woman and her husband, M-Sgt. J. R. Stram, had an argument at breakfast. He said the woman apparently shot herself after her husband left for work at the nearby Cherry Point Marine Air Base. Smith said she left a note telling of recent domestic difficulties.

New Wave of Unrest Expected in Russia

WASHINGTON (UP) — U. S. officials today viewed the top-level shift in the Soviet foreign ministry as the beginning of a new attack on unrest inside the Soviet Union.

Experts studying the surprise shift of Andrei A. Gromyko for Dmitri Shepilov as Soviet foreign minister doubted that it meant the start of a tough new foreign policy.

They said the bulk of available evidence indicates that Shepilov has been shifted from the foreign ministry to take on the job of bucking up sagging interest for the Communist Party and its ideology on the homefront.

Western officials for many months have been hearing significant reports of unrest, dissatisfaction and disillusionment inside the Soviet Union. They have chiefly involved questioning of Soviet policies by workers and students. Most of the reports followed the fall uprising in Hungary.

Shepilov is regarded as a crack propagandist and Communist Party politician "reared" by party boss Nikita Khrushchev.

Now he has been shifted to be a secretary of the Communist Party's Central Committee — a post he dropped just last December. In his new job, he could open a new campaign designed to quell questioning of the Red regime's policies.

Shepilov has gained a considerable reputation during the last two years for stirring up trouble in the Middle East. He is credited with triggering the Soviet-Egyptian arms deal which brought about the Suez and Middle Eastern crises.

Two Monessen Men Narrowly Escape Death

Two Monessen men narrowly escaped injury early this morning when the car in which they were riding went out of control and struck a utility pole on Route 906 near the Charleroi - Monessen Bridge, police said.

One of the men, Peter Shenos, 67, of 213 Third street, is in Charleroi-Monessen Hospital suffering from bruises about the body and knee. His condition is "good," according to hospital reports. The driver, Michael Katsuleris of 513 Third street, was treated at the hospital for a bruised right leg and then released.

Reports said Katsuleris was driving toward Monessen when Shenos inadvertently touched the steering wheel, causing the driver to lose control. The car veered off the road and struck the pole, shearing it off at the base.

More Refugees

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UP)— The number of Hungarian refugees fleeing to Yugoslavia has reached a total of 17,224, a government spokesman said today.

50,000 Lottery Slips Found in Police Raid

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Two District of Columbia gamblers, who planned to "make a killing" at the expense of local numbers racketeers, were held in jail here today after a police raid which netted 50,000 lottery slips.

Asst. Police Supt. Lawrence J. Maloney, who arrested the men in a raid on their room in a downtown hotel, said "jail is probably the safest place for them because they were setting up a very dangerous operation."

Maloney said the men, Jimmy Toland, 50, and Nathan Coleman, 51, planned to beat local numbers operators by substituting counterfeit "winning" slips for losing plays.

"These boys were out for big things," Maloney said.

Maloney said Toland and Coleman never got their scheme in operation because their local "dupe," Charles Ellis, 33, got lost in the lobby of the downtown hotel. When he asked the way out he was steered in the direction of waiting detectives.

The detectives took Ellis back to the second floor room, where Toland and Coleman had been staying since Monday. The raiders found the huge quantity of number slips, neatly tied and initialed, in a truck. In addition, the detectives also found loaded dice and other gambling equipment.

The Washington gamblers told Maloney they were sorry to have come here.

"We didn't know things were so tight in Pittsburgh," one said.

The gamblers told detectives that finding a "friendly numbers pickup man" who would double-cross his boss took several days. They picked Ellis, who led to their downfall.

The gamblers told officers they had worked their counterfeit slip racket in several other cities.

The scheme calls for the confederate pickup man to delay turning in his slips until the winning number, usually based on parimutuals paid at a race track, is available. Then slips bearing the winning combination would be substituted for losing tickets.

May Go To UN for 'Action'

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today after a talk with President Eisenhower that the United States may take "further action" through the United Nations to have Israeli troops withdraw from Egypt.

Dulles, after a two hour meeting this morning with the President and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, flew back to Washington to arrange a meeting as soon as practicable with Abba Eban, the Israeli ambassador to the United States.

The President had nothing to say on the morning conference, but Dulles issued a statement in which he said he and the Chief Executive wanted more clarifying details from the Israeli government on its announced willingness to withdraw from some of the non-Israeli territory.

Want Clarification

Eban said in Washington Friday night that his government wanted additional clarification of the position of the United States.

Dulles said the President again expressed today his "sense of urgency for final congressional action" on his "doctrine" for the Middle East, "particularly in view of the recent propaganda by the Soviet Union against the President's Middle East program."

The President conferred with Dulles and Lodge for 45 minutes late Friday night after they arrived at Spence Air Force Base at Moultrie, Ga., about 37 miles away.

The results of the top-level conference were not announced, but White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Dulles would probably release a statement following today's meeting.

Hagerty said Friday night's talks were undoubtedly on the Middle East — "particularly the Israel situation."

Before leaving Washington Friday, Dulles met with Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban for 80 minutes. Dulles said Eban gave him a "constructive" answer to the American plan for withdrawing Israel troops from Egypt.

However, Dulles said Eban feels the American proposal does not offer Israel sufficient assurances that Egypt will not make overt counter moves.

It was certain that the President, Dulles and Lodge would also discuss the appointment of Andrei Gromyko as Soviet foreign minister, replacing Dmitri T. Shepilov.

The President got in some more hunting Friday. Mr. Eisenhower, who bagged an elusive 22-pound wild turkey Thursday, tried for another gobbler but failed to find one.

Lunch was served to the visiting debaters.

Carolyn Sadey, local NFL director, was in charge of the tourney.

Young Democrats Plan May Party

Kritsky said the affair will be held at William Penn Tavern. Dancing and a floor show will highlight the event. There will be no speaking program.

County's Vaccine Plan Called 'Not Sufficient'

Abe Beter, March of Dimes' chairman in Westmoreland County, yesterday said the County Medical Society's plan to set aside two days in which physicians would administer polio vaccine inoculations in their offices was "not sufficient."

Beter said, "If that is their entire program, it is not sufficient. We feel doctors should make provisions for mass inoculations of polio vaccine, especially for children."

He said he was awaiting further details of the medical society's plan but based on what the society has released to newspapers so far, the program would not meet the requirements of the polio foundation.

Beter said the "go to the doctor's office" program would not qualify for the $15,000 offer which the county polio group made to the medical society Wednesday to help establish a county-wide polio vaccination.

Meanwhile, the medical society has not made public whether it will accept or reject the March of Dimes' money.

Dr. Louis Naples, county medical director and spokesman for the medical society said yesterday the society "has no further statements" to make today. He said the reply to the $15,000 offer "should be ready early next week". It was reported the society planned to take newspaper advertisements to make public its answer.

As the controversy over the polio vaccine mounted, the medical society yesterday announced two days — Feb. 23 and March 23 — would be designated as polio shot days. Under the society's plan, each doctor would be in his office on those two Saturdays from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. to inoculate all who desired the vaccine.

According to Dr. Naples, the shots would be available to "every man, woman and child" in the county. He said the medical society has established a maximum fee of $3 per shot, although doctrs were free to charge what they wished, up to the $3. The shots will be free for those unable to pay, "on the word of the patient", he said.

Builders Be Careful Selecting Materials

To save fuel bills in winter and heat troubles in summer, prospective home builders should be careful in selecting their home construction materials.

Says the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, the ideal type of construction to insure best heat and cold regulation is a conventional wood-framed wall, with wood siding placed over wood sheathing, and using lath and plaster or wood paneled walls inside.

Such a wall will transmit less than one fourth the heat or cold of masonry type wall, the lumber authorities report.

That means a warmer house in winter and a cooler house in the summer. One inch of wood wall is equal to six inches of brick or 15 inches of concrete in insulating value, tests made by the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers Guide show.

Reason for the high insulating value and performance of wood framed homes, the lumbermen report, is that wood is itself a natural insulating material. The two-by-four stud in a wall provides three and five-eighths inches of dead air space in the wall which is a perfect protection against summer heat transmission and heat loss in winter, plus insulating value of sheathing and siding.

Lumbermen point out one other great advantage which wood walls enjoy over masonry, and that is the saving in floor space. Wood walls take up much less of usable space inside the home than do wider walls of masonry construction.

How to Nail Wall Paneling Down

Some home carpenters desiring to build a family room in the basement have become dismayed because of the prospects of nailing wall paneling onto cement foundations.

Here is an easy solution. Nail one-by-three inch furring strips onto the cement wall horizontally at about two-foot intervals, starting from the floor. Use cement nails which drive right into the concrete.

This will give you a perfect nailing surface for your wood panels.

1956 Good Year In Oil Heating Industry Circles

While 1956 will not go down in history as the biggest year in the history of the oil heating industry, it is regarded as having been a good year.

It is expected that the final sales figures for 1956 will show that it was approximately as good as 1954 when about 746,000 oil burners were sold. This figure included domestic burners, boiler-burners, and furnace-burners.

The oil heating industry is looking forward to a good year in 1957 with a substantial participation in the new home market of around one million homes and a slice of the modernization market. The oil heating industry has staked a sizable claim in the remodeling field and estimates that 20,000,000 old homes are in need of better heating systems.

Each year the oil heating industry finds a good market for burners in the conversion from other fuels and the replacement of old automatic oil burning equipment, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau points out.

The total number of oil burners in use in central heating plants at the beginning of 1957 is estimated at around 8 200,000.

Indicative of the progress made by the oil heating industry in recent years is the comparison with 1945 when only 2,500.000 oil burners were used for central heating

Bathroom Is not Expensive

If you can afford $80 a month for a new car, a new bathroom, which costs much less, is well within your budget, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau says.

A little mathematics will prove the point. Three-quarters of all new car sales are currently being financed on terms of $80 a month for 28 months.

For $20 a month—only a quarter of what it costs to buy a new car — a new bathroom can be financed, with payments extended over a five-year period, if necessary. This is in accordance with terms of the recently-liberalized FHA Title I home improvement loan program.

While the mortgage market for new homebuilding remains tight, there is plenty of money available for home improvement work. The bathroom is one of the best places to start a project of home renovation, the Bureau points out.

New fixtures in color or white, new lighting, floor and wall treatment will erase the ugly lines of age from an old-fashioned bath, while conversion of waste space into extra baths will add greatly to living convenience.

Many plumbing contractors today offer a packaged bathroom remodeling service, which includes financing with easy - to - make monthly payments.

Douglas Fir Tree Top Commercial

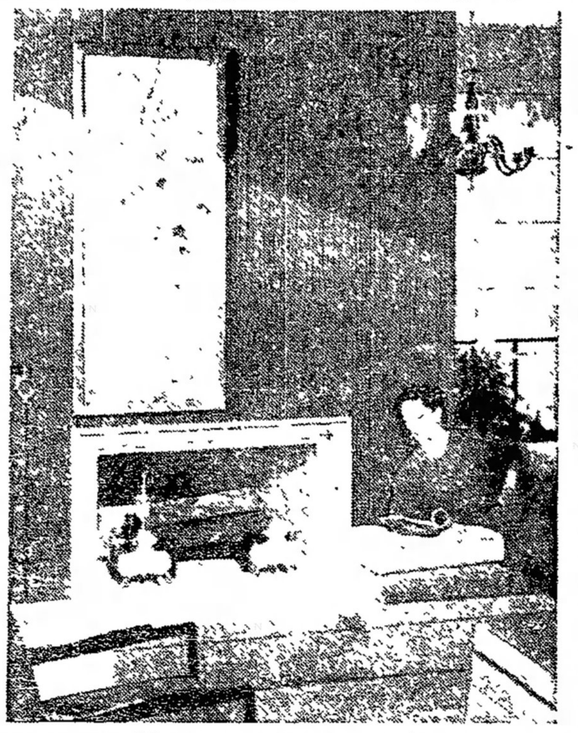
In terms of volume of standing timber and value of products cut, the Douglas fir tree is considered the most important single commercial tree of the United States.

It is noted for its great structural value and supplies the nation with much of its house framing lumber. It also has outstanding beauty and texture which makes it prized as an appearance grade of lumber for interior finish in homes and other buildings.

Durable Floor at '39 World's Fair

When officials of the 1939 San Francisco World's Fair had their buildings designed they asked the architects to give them a durable floor.

Because of its toughness and fact that it hardens as it wears, west coast hemlock flooring was selected, and it justified the architect's confidence by withstanding the trodding of 20 million pairs of feet.



WOOD 'WARMS' HEARTH — Wall planks with the distinctive grain and rich coloration of cherrywood bring a visual warmth to complement the simple, clean lines of this modern fireplace. These are Marlite plastic finished hardboard planks.

Wood Grain Paneling Serves Many Purposes

The simple, clean lines of modern-style fireplaces offer a strong visual interest, but the general effect usually is enhanced by giving the fireplace wall some special pattern, line and color, decorators point out.

Wood grain paneling can serve such purposes on all counts. Each type of wood grain has its distinctive appeal. Tongue-and-groove planks add the interest of their vertical joint lines. And wood coloration affords its own kind of richness.

For a fireplace wall that combines the decorative characteristics of wood grains with unusual practical advantages, many home owners cover the area with planks of prefinished hardboard.

Available in authentic reproductions of selected wood grains, these planks are a smooth grainless wood-fiber product with a baked plastic finish that defies soil, moisture, wear and other abuse. They need no finishing or waxing. And they can be wiped clean with a damp cloth.

The modern fireplace setting can profit also from other decorative touches. The tendency toward smaller fireplace openings results in a larger wall expanse above, and often there is no mantel on which to display art objects. These factors make it especially effective to hang an impressive picture or group of pictures over the fireplace.

One can capitalize in a decorative sense from the tendency to place the hearth above the floor so that everyone can get a good view of the blazing logs. A raised hearth can be expanded into a built-in bench that extends along the fireplace wall. This gives an extra visual interest in itself, and also serves for display of fireplace accessories and for seating.

Dividers Useful

In open area homes, divider half walls and space breakers are becoming increasingly useful to separate kitchen, dining area and living room.

Building Costs Reported Down

Estimated expenditures for all types of building construction authorized in Pennsylvania during December took a seasonal drop of 8.3 per cent from the previous month's total, according to Acting Secretary of Labor and Industry Milton Weisberg.

Although the December volume dropped to $40,640,463 from $44,322,912 in November, it was 12.1 per cent higher than the $36,255,184 recorded in the same month last year. New projects authorized in 535 municipalities dropped to 3,596 in December, a decrease of 43 per cent from the 6,308 operations started in November, and 3 per cent less than last December's total of 3,709.

The decline in construction costs was due to the seasonal drop in new housing. On the other hand, spending for non-residential building registered a greater volume. Other details of Weisberg's report follow:

Residential Building

The December total of 1,134 new dwelling units was down 43 1 per cent from the 1,992 units provided in November and 14 per cent under the 1,318 recorded in December 1955.

Permits were issued for 1,102 residential buildings estimated at $14,487,027, as against 1,740 operations and an investment of $21,842,579 for November, a decline of 33.7 per cent in cost and 36.7 per cent in operations.

Comparison of current figures with December a year ago shows decrease of 13 6 per cent in permits issued and 7.8 per cent in dollar volume.

Outlays for new commercial, industrial and public building construction increased 28.6 per cent over the November total despite a decrease of 39.6 per cent in the number of projects started.

Valuation of non-residential building in December was estimated at $20,067,142 for 368 separate operations to compare with $15,600,686 expended for 609 projects in November.

During the corresponding period a year ago, the dollar volume was estimated at $14,354,351 for 341 projects.

Renter Disappearing

The renter is gradually disappearing from the American scene. Today, the Small Business Administration says, more than 55 percent of all homes are owner-occupied. This compares with 44 percent in 1940.

"Octopus" outlets are only one symptom of low HOUSEPOWER. Others are blown fuses . . . flickering or dimming lights . . . shrinking TV pictures! This can happen even in a newer home.

Low HOUSEPOWER simply means you have more electrical appliances than your home is wired for. (You're not alone! Today's average home uses 3 times as much electricity as it did 15 years ago!)

A simple HOUSEPOWER RATING will show you exactly how your home measures up to electrical efficiency. It will tell you:

1. Whether you have low HOUSEPOWER.
2. What appliances your home can safely and efficiently handle.
3. What must be done to get full HOUSEPOWER if you don't have it now.
4. What appliances you can add after modernizing your wiring.

To have your home HOUSEPOWER rated T.M. —for both safety and convenience—call your local electrician. Or phone your West Penn Power office and we'll arrange to have an electrician contact you. A complete survey of your wiring will be made without obligation, and recommendations given on how to get full HOUSEPOWER. Remember, full HOUSEPOWER increases the value of your home—helps you and your family LIVE BETTER . . . Electrically.

Army Tradition Wins Out Over Thrifty Funerals

WASHINGTON (UP)—Army tradition and love of horses have won out over thrifty motorized funerals.

For more than 92 years the Army has used a caisson pulled by horses to bury officers with military pomp at Arlington National Cemetery.

At present the Army maintains a special stable of 16 matched gray horses for military funerals at Arlington.

But this year the Army took a long thrifty look at the tradition

It figured out that funerals with a horse-drawn caisson cost $175 Funerals with motorized hearses cost only $2 15.

So the Army decided several weeks ago that as of June 1, the horses had to go. A roar of complaints from congressmen and other upholders of tradition followed immediately.

The Army bowed to the opposition Friday and took the horses off the auction block.

Don't List Dog As Dependent On Tax Return

WASHINGTON (UP)— The nation's top tax collector has a tip for taxpayers· Don't list your dog as a dependent.

He also takes a dim view of dentists who don't mind cheating the government a little bit, but conscientiously draw the line at anything over $5,000 a year.

Would-be tax evaders tried these and other methods of fooling the Internal Revenue Service last year, only to wind up in court and frequently behind bars

Revenue Commissioner Russell C. Harrington told of the cases Friday night in reporting on the 1956 tax enforcement drive. He felt the report might serve as a word to the wise now that tax-paying time is here again.

Norstad Renews Plea Against British Cuts

ROME (UP)— U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, reported ready to make a new plea against British defense cuts, warned again Friday that any reduction of military manpower in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will seriously weaken European defense.

The supreme Allied commander in Europe repealed the warning in a speech to the Italian Center of International Reconciliation.

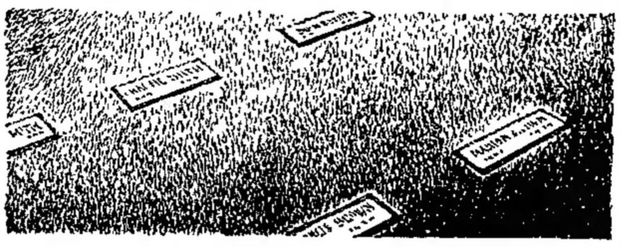
BEAUTIFUL FAMILY MONUMENT
OF GRANITE OR MARBLE

For what it costs to mark the average non-monument cemetery plot with individual flat metal markers . . .



Experience the pride that comes in perpetuating the memory of your loved ones. Place them to rest in a traditional monument cemetery where you may erect an impressive family memorial of granite or marble in their honor.

Actually, such a monument costs no more than what a non-monument cemetery would charge for plain metal markers on a 4 or 6 grave lot. Let no one tell you differently.

ANSWER THIS QUESTION

Am I My Brother's Keeper?

Those words do come from the Bible. And they have sometimes been quoted to justify a man's lack of concern for the welfare of others.

When we quote Scripture we must be careful WHOM we are quoting!

It was Cain, the first murderer, who asked that biting question. God had said, "Where is Abel, thy brother?" And Cain was trying to escape the consequences of his crime.

Each of us is responsible for his brother's welfare. That is the very reason this feature is appearing in your newspaper

You and your family need the spiritual resources our churches offer. In whichever Christian congregation you select there are waiting to welcome you many men and women and young people whose faith has taught them a deep concern for their brothers.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons An every person should attend and serve regularly and support the Church. They are (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible as

Inter-union Split Hurts Dock Strike Settlement

Dissension Out In Open; Talks Resume Today

NEW YORK (UP)—An inter-union split hampered efforts today to end the strike of 45,000 East Coast dock workers.

The dissension broke into the open Friday when leaders of three powerful New York locals of the International Longshoremen's Association and a score of their followers stormed from a meeting of the union's 110-man negotiating committee.

At the urging of ILA President William Bradley, however, the dissidents returned to the meeting and, later, agreed to resume caucusing today.

Breaking out of the long-hinted dissension—the most dramatic development of the strike—assured continuation of the walkout through the week end, at least. But it was possible that union negotiators would meet late this afternoon with representatives of the strikebound New York Shipping Assn.

Both sides were known to be close to agreement on a new contract. Settlement of the dispute today, however, would not get cargoes moving since dock workers must receive week end work orders by Friday.

Friday's walkout by union negotiators stemmed from a vote in which the ILA bargaining committee agreed, by a margin of 131 to 0, to reconsider an employer offer that had been rejected Thursday. The dissenters had strongly opposed reconsideration of what the shipping association called its "final offer."

So far, the dock strike, affecting ports from Maine to Virginia, has not had a severe effect on the nation's commerce, mainly because movement of ocean-going freight had been stepped up in anticipation of the work stoppage.

Key stumbling block to a settlement is a contract clause concerning the jurisdiction of dock workers on the piers. Wages and most other issues already have been resolved.

Airman Killed in Crash of Bomber

ROSWELL, N.M. (UP) — A Weaverville, Calif., airman was killed and nine other members of his ground crew were burned late Friday when a $19 million B47 Stratojet medium bomber caught fire on a ramp at Walker Air Force Base here.

The dead ground crewmen was identified as Airc Gerry B. Pomeroy, 25. The other nine were not seriously burned.

Soviet People Are Surprised at Change

MOSCOW (UP)— The Russian people learned from a back page announcement in the Communist Party organ Pravda today that Andrei Gromyko had replaced Dmitri Shepilov as foreign minister.

The announcement, appearing at the bottom of the page, also told them that Nikolai Pattolichev, a little known deputy foreign minister, had been elevated to Gromyko's old post as first deputy.

If the Russian people were surprised, diplomats here were shocked. The removal of shaggy-headed, 51-year-old Shepilov at such a critical time in the Middle East situation caught them unawares.

Western diplomats adopted a wait-and-see attitude on just what the sudden emergence of the 47-year-old Gromyko in the top foreign policy spot means. But their initial reaction was that it meant no change in Soviet foreign policy —no return to the "tough' cold war policy of old Bolshevik Vyacheslav M. Molotov, once Gromyko's boss.

(In Jerusalem, Israeli sources said Gromyko's appointment might mean a turn for the better. They regarded it as a slap at the Arabs since Shepilov had played the part of Arab champion in the current Middle East situation while Gromyko helped create the state of Israel when he was a U.N. delegate in 1948.

(A dispatch from Cairo said Shepilov's removal as foreign minister caused "general regret" in Cairo circles since had strongly supported Egypt and was believed to have played an important role in getting Communist arms for Egypt.

(U.S. officials in Washington viewed the shift as the beginning of a new attack on unrest inside the Soviet Union rather than the start of any new tough foreign policy.

(In Tokyo, Japanese government experts said the shift actually was designed to strengthen First Party Secretary Nikita S. Krushchev's hand by putting Shepilov — regarded as a Khrushchev protege — back on the Communist Party's central committee as a secretary.

(A dispatch from London said top diplomats throughout Europe appeared to agree that there would be no radical change in Soviet foreign policy because of the switch.)

Presidium Formulates Policy

Western diplomats in Moscow pointed out that Soviet foreign policy is formulated by the 11-man Communist Party presidium and not by one individual such as Molotov or Shepilov or Gromyko.

These diplomats said if there is any change in Soviet Middle East policy it probably would be one of approach rather than action.

They pointed out that Shepilov's foreign policy speech last Tuesday, in which he called for the Big Four powers to agree to a "hands off" arrangement for the Middle East, was approved by the Supreme Soviet.

Shepilov took orders from the presidium as Molotov did before him and Gromyko will do now, the diplomats said.

Valley Lutheran Brotherhood to Meet Feb. 21

Announcement was made of the meeting of the Valley Lutheran Brotherhood to be held Feb. 21, at Monongahela, when the regular meeting of the Men's Brotherhood of St. Paul Lutheran Church was held in the church social rooms. All men of the church were invited to attend.

Merle Meyer read the scripture and President Holmes Anderson gave the prayer. Reports were given by Carl Carlson, treasurer and John Frick, secretary.

Heino Larmi was topic leader for the evening and next month's leader will be Bill Hagerstrand.

The men were asked to volunteer to serve as troop committee members for the Brotherhood sponsored Boy Scout Troop and anyone interested was asked to contact the president.

During the social hour there was a movie shown on plastics. Luncheon was served by Raymond Michaux and Alvin C. Frick, who will also be hosts at next month's meeting.

Harry Truman to Become Grandfather

NEW YORK (UP)— Practically the whole world heard that Margaret Truman Daniel is going to have a baby. But down in Zebulon, N.C., her mother-in-law said: "Oh, is it true? I hadn't heard."

Mrs. E. C. Daniel first learned she was to become a grandmother when a reporter called her Friday.

E. Clifton Daniel, her only son, who is married to former President Truman's daughter Margaret, announced Friday that he and his wife are expecting their first child late in June. He their first child late in June. He is assigned to the city desk of the New York Times.

When a United Press reporter called his mother she said:

"Oh, is it true? I hadn't heard. Of course, if it's true, I'm delighted. It will be our first grandchild. Clifton is our only son."

She said they hadn't told her anything about it "and he writes fairly often, and I've talked to him on the phone a few times. They were here over the weekend of Jan. 14, and didn't say anything about it."

However, former President Truman had heard the news and was enjoying the idea of becoming a grandfather for the first time. He and Mrs. Truman are vacationing in Florida.

Margaret, who will celebrate her 33rd birthday Sunday, was in seclusion at the couple's new Manhattan apartment. They moved from their hotel apartment three weeks ago to make room for the baby.

The young Mrs. Daniel's television career has also been set aside to make preparations for the event. She is under a one-year contract with the National Broadcasting Co., which did not commit her to a specified number of appearances. The contract became effective last Sept. 1.

George Liberace Pleased with Violin's Return

CHICAGO (UP)—George Liberace's violin has been returned to its owner's fond clasp.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation called a special news conference Friday night to tell the world the stolen instrument had been recovered—by accident.

Officials said the $25,000 fiddle was recovered while they were out sleuthing on a "tip" about another case. The federal agents maintained an aura of secrecy about the recovery, however, refusing to answer any question about the tip, the other case, or where the violin was found.

The expensive violin was swiped from its owner last Monday as Geoge was leaving a night club where he and his brother, television pianist Liberace, were playing.

George, who said the instrument appeared to be unharmed, zipped through an impromptu concert for newsmen.

Three Teenage Girls Killed; Others Injured

SUNBURY, Pa. (UP) — Three teenage girls were killed and five others persons were injured, one critically, Friday night when their automobile ran off the highway near here, struck several poles and overturned.

The dead were identified by police as Doris Lupold, 17; Dorothy Smoogen, 14, and Dorothy's cousin, Penny Sacona, about 16, all of nearby Shamokin.

Dorothy's sister, Patricia, 17, was listed in critical condition at Sunbury Community Hospital.

Admitted to the hospital were George McKinney, 23, identified by police as the driver; Rose Marie Labusky, 14; Robert Persing, 18, and Richard Tar, 17, all of the Shamokin area.

The accident occurred on Route 122, six miles east of here.

Admits to Shooting His Wife

ABERDEEN, S. D. (UP) — A young father surrendered to police Friday night after seeking spiritual forgiveness for fatally shooting his pregnant wife and wounding two others.

William G. McMullen, 25, Durand Mich., orally admitted to police that he emptied a clip of pistol ammunition into his wife, Donna, 24.

The victim's father, James W. Deacon, Aberdeen, and Jim Sahli, 17, an Aberdeen High School student, were both in the hospital with bullet wounds, neither in critical condition.

The young mother had returned to her parents' home with the couple's two children just a few days ago. Her family said Mrs. McMullen was unaware that her estranged husband had arrived in Aberdeen.

Police said Mrs. McMullen came running into her father's office in the Aberdeen High School building, screaming, "He's going to kill me."

Deacon called police and steered his daughter into a rear office to hide her. McMullen suddenly burst into the room, waving a pistol and demanding to see his wife. When Deacon tried to restrain the enraged man, police said, McMullen shot him in the wrist, then unloaded the gun's contents into his wife's body.

McMullen dashed from the office, but Deacon was able to attract the attention of Sahli, who was walking through the halls. The high school senior chased the powerfully built McMullen six blocks before he spun about and fired once at the youth, hitting him in the chest.

McMullen darted into a Roman Catholic Church where he collared a priest and begged the astounded cleric to offer him absolution because he said he was "going to blow my brains out."

The priest tried to relax the young man, but he refused to give up his gun. McMullen surrendered without a fight, however, once police arrived.

Budget

ministration nor the GOP figured the appropriation in their budget figures but Senate Majority Leader Rowland B. Mahany (R-Crawford) has said "We are morally bound to pay the subsidy."

The House Republican leadership this week watered down somewhat its original pledge of no new taxes. The chamber's Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson (R-McKean) advised the members that the Appropriations Committee would try to "cut the cloth to fit our pattern." But he added new tax revenues may be necessary if the budget cannot be trimmed sufficiently.

A House-Senate investigation of the state Pardons Board also opens Monday with the legislators selecting witnesses to testify concerning the controversial David Darcy case.

The six-member committee will look into charges that "political considerations" were involved in the board's recommendation to Leader to grant Darcy and two accomplices commutation of death penalties to life imprisonment. The three were convicted eight years ago of the slaying of an innocent bystander during a Bucks County holdup in 1947.

Queen, Philip in Portugal Reunion

LISBON (UP)—Queen Elizabeth II flies to Portugal to meet her husband today for a reunion and second honeymoon which Britns hope will scotch rumors of a royal rift.

The young queen and the dashing Duke of Edinburgh will see each other for the first time in four months when the queen's plane, a turboprop Viscount, lands at Montijo Military Airport outside Lisbon, the end of a four-hour trip from London.

They will have but a few minutes of privacy aboard the plane.

Waiting to welcome them were the heads of commonwealth diplomatic missions here and members of the British Embassy.

Also waiting were some 100 reporters and photographers, mostly British.

High-powered cameras were focused to catch the slightest gesture or facial expression that might indicate the truth or falsity of reports the duke's affections have cooled after nine years as royal consort.

An American newspaper in Baltimore first printed the report last week. A press spokesman at Buckingham Palace denied it.

Royal protocol forbids any display of affection. The queen and the duke must not hold hands. His post is a step behind her and not too close to her side, a retainer rather than husband.

Queen Elizabeth last saw the duke Oct 15. Since then he has been to the Australian Olympic games and traveled some 35,000 miles on official visits from the near-Antarctic to the tropics.

Instead of flying home to join the queen, Philip has whiled away the last week at Gibraltar. He arrived at Montijo early today to await her arrival.

A Readier Reserve

IN A MOVE to step up military training, Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service Director, is asking Congress to authorize the induction of 3.7 million deferred fathers and 4-Fs. That would create a ready reserve, he says, with 4-Fs used chiefly in emergency defense programs. This is the most ambitious program ever proposed by Hershey, who has never been noted for modesty in boosting conscription.

This proposal, in conjunction with a proposed longer training period for the National Guard, seems to indicate that the Pentagon is in earnest in plans to increase trained manpower. All the talk about missiles replacing troops seems to leave the high brass cold.

The highly trained in the regular military services will, of course, be the nucleus of preparedness. But behind them the Pentagon wants a great body of men well enough trained to respond quickly to national defense needs. Whether this is an indication that more serious consideration is being given to the possibility of war is not clear.

Broadened peacetime conscription programs are not welcome in Congress. Whether Congress would go along with the Hershey proposals would depend upon the urgency with which military leaders advocated them, and the extent of unemployment.

Noise and Pestilence

WE HAVEN'T been able to get very excited about the public squabble over where and how to get polio shots.

The Allegheny County Medical Society announced some time ago a program to have everyone inoculated before this summer. It planned a system of clinics to supplement the regular channels. The Westmoreland County Medical Society announced, however, its doctor members were opposed to what they called "mass innoculation" and recommended keeping the job under the wing of the family physician.

The brickbats have been flying ever since.

We suspect there is about the controversy some of the hysteria which seems often to be associated with polio and with the efforts made to combat it.

We doubt very much that any group of doctors would stand in the way of emergency measures that had to be taken to protect the public against epidemic, however extreme or unusual the measures might be.

Actually though there is no evidence of epidemic polio either present or imminent. Polio is a tragic crippler we acknowledge and is still a threat not to be taken lightly. A mervelous, perhaps a miracle, vaccine has been developed, and naturally we hope the advantages of its protection will be applied as widely as possible.

As far as we know there is an ample supply of vaccine, and means have always been provided that those who could not pay for innoculation would be given it free of charge.

We would agree to the value of an educational program to tell the facts of the polio vaccine and impress people with the importance of using it. Noise and fury are not necessarily good educational devices, and we feel a defense can be made of the doctors who decline to stampede.

Long Live the Ads

IT'S HARDLY likely we would let Advertising Week pass without bending your ear in this direction.

Perhaps the American people are pretty well convinced of the part that advertising has played in achieving the present standard of living in our country, and indeed to a great extent throughout the world. For those who may not have heard, advertising is the thing that whets peoples appetite for more goods and services. It thereby steps up production and jobs and reduces the cost of things as they become more plentiful.

Although your automobile seems to cost a lot of money, it would cost more if the factories did not make so many of them. There would be fewer jobs in steel mills if it were not for automobile production, and in turn few if any steelworkers could then afford to buy a car. Wonderful stuff, advertising.

Less well known, perhaps, is the part which a small daily newspaper like The Independent plays in the advertising cycle.

We are the principal advertising outlet for more than 100 local businesses day in and day out, and about that many more individuals. With one day's notice we put their advertising message into more than 7,000 homes in the district. This service, which the advertisers pay us for, not only enables them to sell merchandise in volume but it enables you to buy a newspaper at a fraction of our cost for producing it.

Our ad department tells the story that around here The Independent furnishes advertising quicker, easier and at less cost. They have to keep proving it as they do battle daily against competition like other newspapers, mail circulars, billboards, radio and TV, window trimmers, emery boards, ash trays, calendars, key cases and corkscrews among others.

Advertising is a great institution. We pay our respects and hope the advertisers will continue to do likewise.

Merry-Go-Round—

Air Force Jet Planes Really Safe

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — If any wives or mothers are worried about their menfolk being jet Air Force pilots, they ought to stop worrying. My wife was worried too about my taking a ride in an Air Force fighter-interceptor. But I have concluded that in peacetime they are even safer than commercial planes. And I think anyone viewing all the safety precautions taken by the Air Force would agree with me.

Mr. Pearson

I went out to Andrews Air Force Base the other day to get some idea of how well the Atlantic coast was protected. I figured the best way to do this was to see for myself and take a ride in a jet fighter. The Andrews Base is headquarters for the 85th Air Division, which guards the eastern USA from New Jersey to North Carolina, and which is part of an amazingly efficient network of warnings, including Canada and Mexico and even extending out to sea, in which the Army, Navy, and Civil Defense all participate.

It's something every American should know about, though it took me longer to learn about it than I expected, thanks to the fact that the Air Force won't let you fly in a jet without a rigorous physical which lasted half a day, plus a training course in handling a parachute, a Mae West, a lifeboat, and emergency landing. This is one reason I say you are safer in an Air Force plane than in a commercial plane. You can get out in case of emergency.

Frankly I had a hard time remembering just when you use the sea-marker, where to find the signal mirror and the whistle for use in calling rescue ships, whether to use the smoke flares at night or the red flares in the daytime, or vice versa; and how long to leave the charcoal tablets in your rubber pail of sea-water before you can drink it.

Scaring The Sharks

"You don't eat the shark repellent, no matter how hungry you are," insisted Sgt. James Muldoon, the rescue instructor. "It makes the sharks sick, and you won't like it either. When they get in their gills they go away."

However, I was able to remember the chief details about bailing out. The parachute is strapped on so tight you almost have to sit stoop-shouldered. And when you're in the mood to bail out you pull a lever to tigeten it up even more, then pull a trigger, and you shoot out into the air. After you fall to 10,000 feet the parachute releases automatically. You just don't have to worry about it. Of course, if you insist on worrying, there's a safety manual release which you can use yourself in case the automatic release should forget to work.

"What happens if I pull the trigger by mistake before the airplane canopy is removed?" I asked the flight instructor Lt. J. B. Ledbetter, Jr.

"Then you shoot right through the canopy. It won't hurt you. Your helmet will punch a hole in it."

The helmet, built like a football player's, was indeed a well-built covering. Attached to it was the most frustrating gadget of all, the oxygen mask. Because of the high altitudes you have to use the mask at all times. Inside the mask, right under your nose, is a tiny microphone. A wire connects it with the front cockpit, enabling me to talk to Capt. Ben C. Murph as if he were alongside me in a Washington sitting room.

It also enabled him to talk to the ground and to other planes in the air. I could listen in on such Air Force jargon as "mattress," meaning the cloud layer below; "blankets," meaning the cloud layer above; "pigeons" meaning the direction home; "oranges sweet" — good weather; and "oranges sour" bad weather.

Pearson "Scrambles"

To show how the 85th Air Division goes into action in case an unidentified plane appears off the Atlantic coast, Captain Murph took me aloft in an F-94 C Starfire in a simulated "scramble." A scramble is the quick getaway of fighter jets when the alarm is sounded. The pilots can get from their bunks into the plane and aloft in five minutes.

In this case the F-94 C in which I rode became an enemy plane and two F-86 D's simulated knocking us out of the skies. It was a very exciting maneuver.

The chief thing that worried me during the intercept was Lt. William Gorman of Emporia, Kans., pilot of the escort F-94 C. He kept so close on our port side that I thought our wings were going to touch. The Air Force calls this "holding hands." I didn't feel that romantic about it. Of course, you realize I was worried for Lt. Gorman's safety, not for my own.

After it was all over, Lt. Karl Sanders of Sherman, Tex., Gorman's radar observer, cheered me up: "It's much safer that way. If you get too far away from each other you might get lost in the clouds."

Allies and Partners Different

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The President will receive M. Mollet, the French Prime Minister, in about ten days, and a month later he will fly to Bermuda to confer with Mr. Macmillan. There is no doubt that the simultaneous announcement of these two separate meetings is to be taken as meaning the official end of the period of hard feelings which were aroused over the Suez affair. This is good news. But with the best will in the world, it would be a mistake to assume that the alliance will now be just what it was before, and that there are no fundamental problems which have to be faced.

Mr. Lippmann

In thinking about these problems, it is useful to distinguish between our alliance with Britain and with France on the one hand, and our partnership with them in world affairs. The alliance, which is registered in the NATO treaty, is a solemn and specific pact of mutual defense within the geographical area defined in the treaty. There has been no "rift" in this alliance. It was as valid and binding on the night in the U.N. when we voted against the British and French action in Egypt as it was when the NATO treaty was originally signed.

What has broken down is the partnership which derived not from a treaty but from the personal relationship of Churchill and Roosevelt during the second World War. Into this partnership, after her liberation from the Germans, France was admitted. The essence of the partnership was that in the great issues of peace and war, we would all consult one another and would work out a common policy. When Britain and France intervened in Egypt without consulting the United States, when the United States then took the lead in the United Nations to oppose them, the partnership which Churchill and Roosevelt created was dissolved.

Common Peril

The question now is in what measure a new partnership can be developed. I think we must put it that way because the old partnership would not have dissolved last autumn if there had not already been a deep erosion of the basis on which it rested. Its basis was the common peril of a world war against a formidable enemy in Europe. The war in the Pacific was always in considerable degree outside the partnership. But in the rest of the war — in Europe, the Mediterranean, the Middle East, Africa and the Atlantic Ocean — the Churchill-Roosevelt partnership was real because the two governments were so profoundly dependent the one on the other.

In the post-war period, the area has been contracting in which the partnership has worked. North of Hongkong it has disappeared in the Far East. It does not exist in South Asia. Now it is greatly shrunken in the Middle East, and the question is whether and how far a new partnership can be developed.

The area in which the new working partnership needs to be developed, where it is indeed indispensible, is on the continent of Europe, in the Middle East, and in Africa. The affair in Suez proved that in this area there cannot be an independent British or French policy. It follows that we shall have to work out common policies. We shall have to work out common policies for the reunion of the two Germanies, for the security of the whole continent, for the stabilization and the neutralization of the Middle East, and for the development of Africa.

If we can do that, we shall have again what Churchill and Roosevelt had when they founded the old partnership — great things to do that we must do together.

Spring on the Way, Songsparrows Singing

By JOHN H. DAY

Songsparrows are singing once again whenever the February sun peeks through to warm up the dawning. Now the die is cast. Once these little streak-breasted fellows move into the choir lofts its only a matter of time. From now on, no matter how much zero weather nor how deep the morning snow, the countryman hangs on to his hat as the wayside flees down the calendar into spring. From some stray breeze, errantly freighting a breath of the tropics, the songsparrows got the word.

Man is never alone upon the earth so long as he walks with the sound of bird voices in his ear. It is said that if man were to live in a world of absolute silence he would soon go mad. Dark and forsaken would be the land where no bird voice was heard. Even in the dead of winter the crows and starlings, the titmice and woodpeckers speak with reassurance that all's right with the world.

But when the friendly little songsparrow sits high in the lilac bush at the garden's edge and sing: "Jesus loves even me-me-me-me-me!" the winter-jaded countryman feels a quickening of his pulse at the thought of the misty green days not far off. He thanks his God for the joy of living in a wonderland where the rolling seasons change and where "the time of the singing of birds" preludes the vernal awakening.

Male Hard at Work

There were some small mounds of freshly turned earth alongside the damp trail. I noted them idly as I swung past, recognizing the work of the sommon mole, the little fur-coated miner who can wreak such havoc with prized lawns. Suddenly the largest hillock began to heave convulsively. Down there below decks the tiny hunter was clearing his passageways. Throwing up the loose earth is the easiest way of being rid of that which he displaces in digging for worms.

It was sort of uncanny to stand there in the February silence and watch that bit of earth moving. Great indeed must be the strength of the tiny bull-dozer who was engineering the disposal program. Depending on depth of the frost line he may have been several inches below the surface. Sometimes when the snow lies deep he gets confused and tunnels to the outer air, blindly going back downstairs in a hurry when he discovers his error.

Melting snows and drizzling rains have soaked the forest floor. I couldn't find a log dry enough to sit down on and loafed for a time leaning against the great bole of a tremendous black maple. Already the dampness underfoot was getting in its work. The leaf mulch had packed into a soggy mass, rotting down to the rich humus which feeds the tiny rootlets of woods flower and forest monarch alike.

Woodpeckers Quiet

In the pine plantation edging the timber I had seen golden crowned kinglets and a brown creeper, with the usual entourage of chickadees. Here in the heart of the woodland a small flock of juncoes was busy about the tangled remains of a huge windfall. The day was overcast and in the gloom their white outer tail feathers showed up like neon lights. For some reason the woodpeckers were elsewhere. I didn't see one of these chisel-billed fellows all day.

The great Rail Splitter who knew so well the mid-continent woodlands of his young manhood would hardly recognize the sorry cut-over tracts we call timberland nowadays. He would seek in vain the chestnut which lent its straight-grained lengths to his axe and wedge and splitting maul. He would fail to find the tall stands of tulip-poplar which once reached high for the sun across the rolling hills. The white man has surely been a poor steward.

Once past Valentine's Day the countryman knows that winter is on the downgrade. There may be a few more blizzards, but the driving sun roaring back from his wide swing south of the equator, makes not short work of the most stubborn drift. The calendar says it is still winter, but we have once more heard the sound of rain and running brooks. There will be a certain day when the air comes in over the hills with a different feeling. It's an evanescent, intangible feeling but all countrymen know and love this first soft promise of the returning spring.

National Affairs—

'Conflict of Interest' Inquiry in Congress

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—Conflict of interest is the term used by congressional investigators to challenge government officials who maintain substantial links with private business.

The latest instance of an alleged conflict of interest case has led to the resignation of Assistant Defense Secretary Robert Tripp Ross. Ross, although denying any violation of conflict of interest laws, gave up his post in the midst of a Senate inquiry into his relations with a Ross family firm which holds several millions of dollars worth of defense contracts. Ross said he was resigning because it would be "unfair" to the Defense Department to stay on in view of what he called "derogatory implications."

Mr. Wilson

When a government official maintains an outside business connection which could be favored or hurt by his official actions, the basis for a congressional conflict of interest investigation is present. It does not necessarily follow that the official would or would not shape his official acts to favor his private business.

How About Congressmen?

These congressional investigations come along often. It is a matter of astonishment that some bedevilled official in the witness chair has not long since sought to turn the conflict of interest searchlight on his congressional investigators.

Consider the lawyers, for example. Lawyers far outnumber members of other professions in Congress.

How much conflict of interest would there be in the situation of a senator or congressman whose law firm had substantial corporate patronage and who had to cast his vote on a question which directly would effect the profits of one or more corporate clients?

That is a fair question but not one likely to be asked soon or often. It last was asked some 20 or 25 years ago when the late Sen. Huey Pierce (The Kingfish) Long was rampaging through the tag end of a purple career to be ended by an assassin's bullet. Long was undisputed boss of Louisiana with an overlay of influence in adjoining states, notably Mississippi and Arkansas.

Fell Out With Leaders

It was characteristic of Long that he soon fell out with the Democratic leadership — from FDR down — when he came to the Senate. Senate Democratic Leader Joe T. Robinson was Long's whipping boy for the entire New Deal administration. The Kingfish shocked the Senate and jolted Robinson one day by reading into the record the name of Robinson's Arkansas law firm and list of its big clients.

Long could not accuse Robinson of misdeeds or of putting private interest above the public interest, but the Kingfish bellowed that the temptation was there. And he could quote the Bible by the yard on the hazards of temptation.

Conflict of interest was what Long was talking about. It is your correspondent's recollection that Robinson immediately resigned his law firm connection, not as an acknowledgement of wrong-doing or, even, of a conflict of interest, but simply to get the Kingfish off his back.

Field House Issue Raised Again

For the past several years, the Monessen School Board has "wrestled" with the problem of inadequate dressing and storage facilities at Memorial Stadium. Now the matter has been raised again by Director Alex Kachmarik, who suggests some action on a proposed field house. Some years back, the Board originated a special fund, furnished by athletic profits, to finance a field house. However most of that money was used as a down payment on the swank lighting system at the Stadium. At the moment, there appears to be no money for a field house. In the past, School Solicitor David Weiss has questioned the legality of using tax revenue for such a purpose. However he's promised to reexamine the law and offer a new oppinion. All of which probably means that the field house project is still far off, even though badly needed.

* * *

Incidentally, Bellmar solved its field house need through a public subscription. The Hurricane fans chipped in and built the much-needed facility themselves . . . In Charleroi, the City Basketball Leaque is experimenting with four-man basketball. The new brainstorm provides more room for the cagers to operate on small floors . . . The medical bills of Richard Kadis, injured Geneva College football player, have now reached $16,000. They are increasing at the rate of more than $500 per week . . . Harry Folk, Greensburg's gift to the St. Vincent College basketballers, is averaging 20 points per game this season. He has 343 points at the moment.

Consider Summer Schoolboy Leaque

Up Fayette County way, the Coaches Association is tinkering with a novel idea. There's a suggestion before the group to extend schoolboy baseball through the summer. As a matter of fact, four schools — South Union, All Saints, Immaculate Conception and St. John's —have already formed a league to compete through the summer. Two other Fayette County Schools — Redstone and Brownsville — will stay within the WPIAL baseball program. The rest are undecided . . . The summer plan sounds good to this reporter. The WPIAL baseball season, as now set up, is a waste of time. To begin with, it's too short. And the weather is almost always entirely too nasty for baseball.

The Monessen Cro-Ams, unbeaten in City League basketball play, are trying to lure the Donora Croatian Club into a game next week as a preliminary to the semi-final playoff brawl involving Viaduct and Big Five. The Donora Croatians are currently atop their respective loop standings . . . Speaking of the City League eliminations, crowds have been the largest of the season . . . Dave Russell, Donora shotmaker, is leading Section 5 basketball scorers at the moment with a 21.7 average. He figures to win the point-making title in the valley this season, succeeding another Donoran, Gene Massari, who is now at Pitt.

Benedetti Takes Knocks at Elizabeth

Bill Benedetti, ex of Belle Vernon, is taking his knocks as head coach at Elizabeth High this season. In the tough Section 6 grind, Bill's boys have muffed the lead in no less than four games. The other night they dropped an overtime decision to Duquesne. A win would have ranked with the top upsets of the season. At the end of the game, McKeesport sports reporter Jack Kropp reported this scene from the Elizabeth dressing room: "After the downhearted and disgusted Elizabeth players had entered the locker room, the door flew open and in burst Benedetti's son, a youngster of pre-school age, crying his heart out. His "world" had collapsed once again. The Warrior mentor gathered the lad into his arms and comforted him by saying: Everything's all right son, we'll get them the next time.' "

Basilio Favored in Spite of Sore Hand

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

The scuttlebutt along the boxing boulevards is that Carmen Basilio still is nursing a sore hand but it hasn't effected the odds for his welterweight title defense against Johnny Saxton at Cleveland next Friday night.

Basilio, the erstwhile onion farmer from Chittenennango, N.Y. is 2 to 1 to chop Saxton down again, just as he did in September when he regained the crown. And the price should be better than that this time.

Birdie Tebbetts, manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, claims that his Roy McMillan is the best shortstop in baseball.

Lot Of Selling

"When I was in the other league, I had to rate Phil Rizzuto as the best," Birdie says. "But, McMillan is better. Phil was the greatest coming in on a slow ball but McMillan has greater range and a better arm." Which will take a lot of selling in the American League.

Seattle, first team to accept a bid to the NIT basketball tournament, is beating the All - America guns for 6-foot, 6-inch, 225 -pound Elgin (Rabbit) Baylor. There's support from Al Lightner, veteran Pacific Coast referee, too, because without a blush he calls Baylor "the best player I've ever seen." Proving to some that, as suspected, all referees are blind.

Scorns Spring Training

Frankie Frisch scorns spring training as a "plush country club" but it is a practice which started long before he was born. Before the birth of the major leagues, the Chicago White Stockings of the National Association went to New Orleans for training in 1870. They were in such advanced shape when the season opened that the other association teams adopted the practice.

Oklahoma A&M attracted Adnan Kaisy, 20-year-old 225-pound Iraqian from Baghdad, as a student because of the fame of its wrestling teams. He received a stormy letter from his father, a Moslem preacher, when he cut off his flowing locks and shaved his moustache. Kaisy is studying air conditioning, which he figures will be in big demand in Iraq. But if not, he can always grow back the long hair and moustache and be a pro rassler.

Bellmar Trips Monongahela

Canes Rip Visitors By 74-56

Bellmar High's red-hot Hurricanes swamped visiting Monongahela, 74-56, in Section 5 action last night.

The Canes played by far their finest game of the season, hitting on 50 per cent of their field goal attempts.

Bill Schmidt and Jim Bitonti paced the winners with 21 and 20 points respectively.

For Monongahela, Ed Kikla was high with 25 points.

The visitors made 36 per cent of their field goal efforts, but it wasn't good enough to even scare the hot-shooting Canes.

Take Big Lead

Bellmar rushed off to a 20-12 lead in the first period and the Monongahelans never did come near catching up.

The win was the fourth league triumph in 11 starts for the Bellmar boys this season.

DiBiaso and Kurey Lead 47-39 Decision Over Visiting Cagers

Dick DiBiaso and Joe Kurey, the two junior members of the current Monessen High basketball cast, provided the spark last night as the Greyhounds turned back Donora, 47-39, in a well-played Section 5 encounter.

Some 1325 fans looked on at the MHS gym as the Hounds notched their eighth league triumph in ten starts.

It was DiBiaso and Kurey who really paced the Monessen attack. Between them they scored 24 points.

But even more important, they tallied all 14 points for Monessen in the third period, which proved to be the turning point in the game. Until then, the Dragons had made it close.

Dave Russell, 6-0 junior star, led the losers with 19 points, getting 17 of them in the first three periods.

Good Guess

It was a good game all the way. The visitors led throughout most of the first half, building up a four point lead with six minutes gone in the second period.

The Hounds suddenly got hot, though, and took a 23-20 lead with them to the dressing room at intermission.

In the third period, Monessen pulled steadily in front behind great shooting by DiBiaso and Kurey. The 6-0 Kurey made five of six field goal attempts during the frame, while DiBiaso had a brilliant six for nine chart throughout the game.

In the final period, the Hounds coasted home, once freezing the ball for almost two minutes. With a minute and a half to go, they were in front, 47-35. Only then did the MHS regulars get a rest, as Coach Frank Janosik fielded what will probably be his club next season.

Statistically, the Hounds made 19 of 56 field goal attempts for 34 per cent accuracy. Donora hit on 13 of 42 tries for 31 per cent gunning.

Good on Fouls

Both teams were excellent at the foul line. Monessen made nine of 12 tries, while Donora cashed in on 13 of 17.

By winning, the Greyhounds kept alive their mathematical hopes of tying Charleroi in the final Section 5 standings.

Monessen will invade Charleroi next Tuesday.

Monessen Juniors Nip California In Overtime

Rallying in the closing minutes of the final period, the Monessen Juniors tied the score and then forged ahead in overtime to cop a 37-35 victory over the California Juniors at the MHS gym yesterday afternoon.

Throughout the game California controlled a small lead but with less than a minute left and the score 33-31 for the visitors, Tracy Allen tied the count. California added two more points but Anthony Romasco matched it for the Hounds as the regulation games ended, 35-35.

Controlling the tip, the taller California team held the ball most of the three minute overtime period, but Monessen eventually stole possession and Joe Macik ripped the cords at the final buzzer.

Mantle Told to Lay Off Golf

NEW YORK (UP)— A fretful Casey Stengel, obviously worried over Mickey Mantle's swollen knee, advised his star slugger to "lay off golf" today because "he certainly ought to know which sport gives him his bread and butter."

Stengel's anxiety mounted by degrees at St. Petersburg, Fla., when he learned Mantle's right knee was bothering him so that he had to use an electric cart to get around the course while participating in the annual Baseball Players' Golf Tournament at Miami, Fla.

From Miami, Mantle admitted over the phone that his knee was swollen but he insisted it was nothing serious.

"It didn't interfere with my golf swing and I'm sure I'll be perfectly okay by the time spring training opens," he added.

Brownsville Easily Defeats Rostraver

Brownsville's unpredictable Brownies played one of their better games yesterday afternoon to easily wallop Rostraver, 64-40 in an exhibition game.

The Brownies pulled steadily in front during the first three periods. Going into the final frame they led 54-27.

Sinko Named Coach at Boston

BOSTON (UP)— Boston University's new head football coach Steve Sinko promises to field a "real team" this year against powerful Syracuse and West Virginia.

Sinko promoted from line coach Friday to succeed Aldo (Buff) Donelli, who went to California, said the university should have 17 returning lettermen giving him enough depth for two clubs.

"I regard it as a real challenge —and I'm tickled to death by the appointment," he said.

Perfect Skiing At Ligonier Slope

LIGONIER, Pa. (UP)— Heavy snows the past two days made skiing perfect at Laurel Mountain slopes today as more than 200 skiers opened competition in the Pennsylvania state championship meet.

There were 12 to 15 inches of powder snow over a base of from two to seven inches.

The field for the tournament included entries from Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Maryland, New York, New Jersey and the District of Columbia. The competition continues Sunday.

In recent years the tournament had been cancelled due to lack of snow.

The idea that "20-20" vision is perfect is a fallacy. It merely means that one can see what he should at a distance of 20 feet.

Wallace Tops Cage Scorers

By FRED DOWN

Red-hot Grady Wallace, South Carolina's talented shot-maker, regained the national college basketball scoring lead today in his blazing three-cornered battle with Wilt Chamberlain and Chet Forte.

The 6-foot, 4-inch Wallace—who's eight inches shorter than Chamberlain and seven inches taller than Forte — racked up 44 points Friday night in leading South Carolina to a 97-79 victory over Virginia. The spree gave him a total of 642 points in 21 games for a 30.57 average compared to Chamberlain's 29.94 mark and Forte's 30.16 average.

Chamberlain and Forte have an opportunity to regain the lead Saturday night when Kansas opposes Missouri and Columbia plays Dartmouth.

Kentucky Wins

Kentucky, the nation's third-ranked team, crushed Loyola (Ill.), 115-65, and fifth-ranked Bradley shaded Loyola (New Orleans), 737-72, at Chicago in the two biggest games on Friday night's program.

Coach Adolph Rupp's Wildcats set two Chicago stadium records—total points for one game and 43 field goals in one game—enroute to their 18th victory in 22 games. Sophomore Johnny Cox tallied 22 points in the first half and added 12 in the first nine minutes of the second half to lead the rout.

Enjoy Lead

Bradley enjoyed a 15-point lead early in the second half but it took a field goal by Barney Cable with 13 seconds left to play to lift the Indians to their 17th win in 20 games. Loyola's second-half rally enabled it to lead by one point three times late in the game. Bobby Joe Mason was high-scorer for Bradley with 25 points but it was Cable who came through with the key baskets late in the contest.

In other important games Friday night, Idaho State downed Montana State, 82-70, Brigham Young whipped Colorado A&M, 81-66, Clemson toppled The Citadel, 68-66, Pennsylvania defeated Penn State, 77-68, Temple beat Duquesne, 64-60, and Brown downed Princeton, 88-69.

WPIAL Powers Near Tourney Berths; Allentown Wins Again

By BURTON W. SIGLIN

Four of the WPIAL'S better scholastic cage teams, including unbeaten McKeesport, assured themselves of being around if playoffs are needed to decide their league titles.

Victories for Ford City, Uniontown, Derry and McKeesport meant the best any other team in their sections can do is tie them for the circuit title and force a playoff.

Ford City downed Arnold, 56-50, to leave New Kensington as the only other possible qualifier in Section One. Uniontown's 80-76 conquest of Greensburg gave the victors at least a share of the Section Two crown. McKeesport wrapped up Homestead, 66-53, to virtually assure the tigers of the Section Six pennant, while Derry's 67-41 victory over Ligonier coupled with Ramsay's 51-43 triumph over Scottdale proved the key contests in Section 10.

Washington waltzed into a deadlock with Mt. Lebanon in the District Four race by handing Mt. Lebanon its first league loss, 65-49. Monaca had a stranglehold on the Section Eight race after romping over New Brighton, 83-45.

The other four unbeaten major teams in the PIAA continued their winning ways.

Allentown Wins

Sharon took its 20th straight—longest win string of the season—a 66-42 blasting of New Castle. Coal Township rolled over Berwick, 58-47; Allentown downed city rival Allentown Catholic, 62-51, while Portage showed defensive strength in defeating Conemaugh, 47-25.

The Coal Township and Allentown triumphs gave the two unbeaten teams at least a tie for second half championships in their respective circuits. Both won their first half titles. A victory over Kulpmont next Tuesday will make the Purple Demons undisputed kings of the Keystone League. Bethlehem retains a chance to deadlock Allentown for second round honors in the Eastern League.

Meadville and Erie Strong Vincent have their respective District 10 sectional pennants in the bag. Meadville ran up a 79-37 score on Franklin while Erie Strong Vincent clouted Erie Academy, 60-52.

The District Nine Class A League narrowed down to a fight between Clearfield and defending champion Kane. Clearfield kept its half game edge in the loss column by overcoming DuBois, 65-47, while Kane kept pace by smashing Curwensville, 70-27. Punxsutawney virtually eliminated Bradford from the race by winning, 60-56.

Regain Lead

Quakertown retained its half game first place edge over Springfield in the Bux-Mont race by felling Central Buck, 51-34. Springfield hung on with a 79-44 trouncing of Hatboro.

A three-way tie among Shenandoah, Ashland and West Mahanoy resulted after Friday night's North Schuylkill League games. Shenandoah handed West Mahanoy its first loss of the second round, 68-63. Ashland edged Mahanoy Township 55-49 to make it a three-way tie.

Reading's first half champs easily downed Lancaster, 57-21, to remain unbeaten in second half play. Milton Hershey, the only other team with a spotless second round record, routed Lebanon, 50-45.

Hanover remained atop the South Penn League by shaving Hershey, 62-58. Chambersburg and Carlisle stayed in the running by whipping Middletown and Mechanicsburg, respectively.

Lewisburg continued its surprise second-half showing in the Susquehanna Valley League by slapping Northumberland 41-34. Bloomsburg, the circuit's first half champ, moved into the runner-up spot with a 66-47 win over Selinsgrove.

Among the independents, Altoona, which has already qualified for the post-season championship tournament, overwhelmed Williamsport, 90-57.

Old Forge maintained its leadership of the second round race in the Lackawanna League by pasting Dunmore, 56-43.

Barbero Elected Officials Prexy

Thomas Barbero, of Rsocoe, has been elected president of the Mon Valley Chapter 5, Basketball Officials, for the 14th straight time.

Barbero, long-time head of the valley whistle-tooters, is also faculty-manager of athletics at Monongahela High School.

Elected vice-president at the annual reorganization meeting this week was George Kuvinka, of California, while James Leeper, of Rostraver, was named secretary for the 12th consecutive year.

Named to the Board of control were Earl Stevenson of Monessen, and Robert Watkins.

The chapter will not meet again until Nov. 13, prior to next season.

Webb Pounds Out Decision Over Rivers

NEW YORK (UP)—"Three more fights and then a shot at the title." was today's schedule for Spider Webb, Chicago's spring-steel middleweight contender who Friday night gave Neal Rivers a bloody, lopsided licking for his 18th straight victory.

Increasingly confident after his impressive Madison Square Garden debut, the lanky Spider said, "My next bout will be at Chicago Stadium, March 13, probably against Joey Giardello. And after that we want Tiger Jones, then Charley Humez of France — to clinch the title shot."

Fourth-ranked Webb, weighing 158 pounds to 157 for Rivers of Las Vegas, Nev., had the game Far-Westerner bleeding from both brows and from the mouth and nose. And eighth-ranked Rivers was so groggy and exhausted in the final round that he fell down, without being hit, for a count of nine. Referee Harry Kessler ruled it a "knockdown," apparently to give Rivers a respite — instead of stopping the bout, as many of the 2,500 fans were urging.

Gardner Named Director by Bucs

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Gerry W. Gardner, who has managed in the Pittsburgh Pirates' farm system for the last five years, has been appointed to the club's West Coast scouting staff. Gardner played pro baseball for 17 years — mostly in the Pacific Coast League.

Milers Eye New Indoor Mark at Garden Tonight

NEW YORK (UP)—Gunnar Nielsen's 4:03.6 world indoor mark may be threatened tonight when Ron Delany meets the challenge of Fred Dwyer in the New York Athletic Club's Baxter Mile at Madison Square Garden.

The race is the feature of a star-studded program in which seven Olympic champions and 10 other 1956 Olympians are competing.

Delany never has bettered 4:06.3 indoors but he cracked the four-minute barrier at 3:59 at Compton, Calif., last June when Dwyer ran a 4:00.8 mile.

The remainder of the field consists of George King, Phil Coleman, Ike Matzan, Burr Grim and Jim Beatty.

Lazslo Tabori is stepping up from the mile to the Toussaint Two-Mile tonight but the Hungarian sub-four - minute miler is expected to trail Horace Ashenfelter to the wire.

Sowell to Run

Arnie Sowell, who set a world record of 1:00.3 in the Millrose 880, again meets Olympic champion Tom Courtney in the Halpin 880.

Charlie Jenkins, the Olympic 400-meter champion, will try to reverse last week's Millrose result when he faces Reggie Pearman in the Buermeyer 500 while Olympic champions Milt Campbell and Lee Calhoun renew their duel in the 60-yard high hurdles.

Bob Richards, another Olympic champion, is favored in the pole vault: Parry O'Brien, world record holder and Olympic titlist, heads the field in the shotput; Phil Reavis once again is favored in the high jump and Ira Murchison tops the field in the 60-yard spring.

Card Manager Starts Experiments

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UP)—Manager Fred Hutchinson of the St. Louis Cardinals started his first experiment of the spring Friday when he ordered center-fielder Mel Nelson, a right-handed batter, to try hitting left-handed. Nelson hit .244 with Rochester in the International League last season.

Monessen B. C. Takes Loop Lead

Monessen Bowling Center took over its division lead in Greater Pittsburgh League bowling last night by sweeping over the former pace-setter Irwin.

The host Monessen bowlers spilled no less than 2597 pins during the night. Eli Freville was high for the winners with a 210-534 chart. Don Garlow led the visitors with 199-521.

District College Fives Bow

By UNITED PRESS

Duquesne, Carnegie Tech and Penn State went down to defeat when they invaded Eastern Pennsylvania Friday night, and for Duquesne the loss could be costly.

Duquesne dropped a 64-60 decision to Temple in the opening game of a doubleheader at the University of Pennsylvania Palestra in Philadelphia. That may have killed the Dukes' chances for a bid to the National Invitational Tournament in Madison Square Garden.

Penn State lost to Penn, 77-68, in the second game of the doubleheader, and at Lewisburg Carnegie Tech was defeated by Bucknell, 63-58.

Other results: Edinboro 100, Alliance 88; St. Francis College 87, Fairleigh - Dickinson (Rutherford, N.J.) 74; California 91, Clarion 79; Buffalo (N.Y.) State Teachers 92, Thiel 70.

Scores 29

Dave Ricketts scored 29 points for Duquesne but Temple's back court combination of Guy Rodgers and Mel Brodsky combined for 39 points to lead the Owls to victory.

It was a hotly contested game with plenty of shoving and pushing by both teams throughout the contest.

Penn came from behind to upset Penn State, overcoming an 11 point deficit to move ahead at 59-54 and increasing its lead to the end.

Carnegie Tech held a 33-28 halftime lead against Bucknell, but Jack Flanagan, with 22 points, and Joe Baccelli, with 20, led the Bisons in a second half comeback.

Edinboro's victory was another pleasant note in what appeared to be a late season surge. It was their third consecutive win and the second time in the three-game streak they hit the 100 point mark.

Monaca Latest Quint to Clinch Section Crown

By UNITED PRESS

Monaca in Section A and Snowden and Aspinwall in Section B won sectional titles Friday night to qualify for the annual WPIAL District 7 basketball tournament starting later this month.

They joined North Braddock Scott, Section 7, and Shannock Valley, Section 21, which won their divisional titles previously.

Monaca repeated by defeating New Brighton, 83-45, for its 10th consecutive sectional triumph.

Snowden extended its victory string to eight in defeating South Fayette, 66-29.

Aspinwall was forced into overtime to defeat Oakmont, 75-73, for its 18th consecutive victory and 12th in sectional play.

Schools assuring themselves of at least a tie for sectional titles were Wampum, which defeated Bessemer, 98-45; Neville, which beat Bellevue, 51-43; McKeesport, which trounced Homestead, 66-53, and Uniontown, which defeated Greensburg, 80-76.

Standings show Trumps, 15-9; Jokers, 15-9; Diamonds, 14-10; Spades, 11-13; Clubs, 9-15; and Hearts, 8-16.

Standings show Tigers, 13-5; Cubs, 9-9; Bears, 8-10; Giants, 6-12.

Myfords Romp In Valley Loop

Monessen Myfords won two of three gamts from Charleroi in Mon Valley League bowling last night.

Salient Buick Features for '57 Show Many Impressive Changes

Many new changes have been made in the 1957 Buick but to really appreciate them you should go to the Mon Valley Motors, Inc., Buick sales and service, 252 East Donner avenue, and see this great new car.

Here are some changes worth noting:

New Engines—all four series—Roadmaster, Super, Century, Special—have 364-cubic inch engines, up from 322 cubic inches last year.

Roadmaster, Super and Century engines generate 300 horsepower with 10-to-1 compression ratio, increased from 255 horsepower and 9.5-to-1 ratio; Special series engines generate 250 horsepower with 9.5-to-1 compression ratio, up from 220 and 8.9-to-1.

Lower Silhouette — All cars reduced in height, some models as much as three and three-eights inches lower than last year, without sacrificing ground clearance. Headroom remains same, legroom increased in four-door hardtops.

Styling—Styling changes include new front and rear design, larger panoramic windsheilds, three-piece back windows on Century and Special, optional on Roadmaster; sculptured sweepspear molding, new bumpers front and rear.

Rear body pillars on Roadmaster and Super series wider, sloping forward from top to bottom. On fourdoor models a portion of rear door above doorbelt line incorporated into pillar. This, plus fact entire door is located forward of rear wheel cutout, provides easier access to rear seat.

Hoodlines lowered, fender lines raised to accentuate long, low silhouette, and provide better visibility.

Sculptured sweepspear molding in bright stainless steel with baked enamel center line in tangerine color, which remains same in all models regardless of body color.

Twin chrome moldings extending over trunk lid and roof to windsheild distinguish standard Roadmaster models. If one-piece back window is desired, chrome moldings extend over trunk lid only.

New chassis—Stability on corners and curves improved with system used for first time. New anti-drive device reduces front end dives on fast stops by 60 per cent.

A safety minder whiih buzzes constantly when predetermined speed is reached is featured as optional equipment on all models. Safety minder can be set at any speed desired.

Twenty body styles in 1957 line, including two - and - four door sedans available in Special series only.

Three estate wagons offered in Special and Century series, two in four-door hardtop styling without center body pillars. Regular design with center pillars available in Special series only.

Kretlow, Dark Golf Favorites

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)— Defending champion Lou Kretlow and Alvin Dark were prohibitive favorites to win their respective matches in the Baseball Players Golf Tournament today and then go on to battle each other in Sunday's final round as they did last year.

Kretlow took medal honors Friday with a three-over-par 75 although Dark came in with the same score. When the cards were matched, Kretlow was judged the winner because he had a birdie three on the first hole while Dark took a four.

John Says:

With all the new "additives" in gasoline, I expect every day to see alphabet soup come out of the hose nozzle.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Rosario Sellaro, who died two years ago today, February 16, 1955
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
And still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile,
Of one who once sat there
It is lonesome here without you,
And sad the weary way;
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away
Sadly missed by Wife, Children and Grandchildren

In olving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Frank Harter, who died one year ago today, February 16, 1956
Gone, dear father, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill
Sadly missed by Wife, Children and Grandchildren

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Catherine Stefanowicz, who died 14 years ago today, February 16, 1943.
Today recalls sad memories,
Of our dear mother, gone to rest
And the ones who think of her today
Are the ones who loved her best
Sadly missed by Husband and Family

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs Anna Zawoyski who died one year ago today, February 16, 1956
You are not forgotten, mother,
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes on we miss you more
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place
Sadly missed by Sons, Daughters and Grandchildren

Your Health—

Try Exercises to Relax Eyes

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

It feels good to sit down and relax after a busy day at the office or factory, doesn't it?

But the next time you do, try exercising your eyes instead of closing them.

If you have been using your eyes for close work at a desk or machine, hour after hour it might be a good idea to relax these strained muscles every once in a while.

One way you can do it is simply by rolling your eyes. Not only will this help relax muscles that have been over-used, it will stimulate other eye muscles which haven't been given much use, if any at all.

Rolling your eyes won't help improve your vision, nor will it make your eyes any healthier But it doesn't cause any harm, either And I think you'll find that it definitely helps to relax them.

There's another exercise, too, that may help provide a certain measure of relief from strain caused by close work It's just as simple as the one I've already mentioned

All you have to do is to fasten your gaze on some distant object briefly and then transfer it abruptly to something nearby. Do this several times, alternating between the distant object and the one near-by.

I don't want you to confuse these relaxing exercises with those used in orthopic training Exercises advised by opthalmologists help to correct cases of crossed-eyes, squint and the like

The two exercises I have cited above won't help cure any such trouble.

I know you both to be intelligent, well educated parents, so perhaps you can suggest why your son Johnny is doing so poorly.
